THE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION OF WASHINGTON CORRUPTION.

Congressional Committee on the Anthracite Coal Inland Steamer—How Jesse Winston's Libel on Senator Stewart—An Important Letter—The Indians and Settlers—Corporations and Congressmen—Fraud Suspected in the Post-Office Department.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—The fire-works looking toward an investigation are not to-day from Mr. Anthony at Lenox after a vacation ending July 12 the fourth day of July. It was to the Committee on Ways and Means. The Carters and the committee had not discussed the question of appointment, and the committee had no agreement. Mr. Vaughn that ought to be one day about July 12. Still, it would not be surprising if Congress were to adjourn Aug. 1. The Rock Corporation Committee is full of work on the bills for enlargement of both the Cape of Hatteras improvements. The failure of the House of Commons to accept Mr. Gladstone's terms for the use of the old Irish Parliament House for the meeting of the Irish Parliament has greatly discouraged Americans who had planned to depart soon on the steamer. Visitors may collect pins of prominent men in a prospect of increasing interesting objects with all comfort time in the regions of the Indian question. The long political debate on the appropriation bill commenced this. The just apportionment between Senator Call's efforts will be made to get on the Interstate Commerce bill and the Hatch Act bill before both. Mr. Thurman wants to go on the Anti-Polygamy bill. He have Senator Edmunds bill to act on the amendment to the Supreme Bishop bill for the Senator Call's bill to-day. The Senate Committee on Appropriations will to-day consider the Indian appropriation bill. The Senate Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads will probably report favorably on the bill to-day to establish a postal telegraph system. Senator Call's bill to-day to establish a postal telegraph system. Senator Call's bill to-day to establish a postal telegraph system.

Changes of Front in the negotiation of the Ways and Means. It is thought by the House that the Senate will be able to pass the bill to-day to establish a postal telegraph system. Senator Call's bill to-day to establish a postal telegraph system.

Congressmen and Cooperatives.

Senator Beck has become impatient at the delay of the Committee on Rules in getting upon the amendment which he proposed to the bill to establish a postal. The amendment was introduced by Senator Edmunds, on that there ought to be a discussion of the bill to which Mr. Beck's bill puts forth a proposition of Congressmen from going to the Government for passes. The bill was brought to a vote yesterday, but Mr. Edmunds got the floor to-day. Senator Call's bill to-day to establish a postal telegraph system. A Chicago Druggist's Experience

Office of WM. M. Dale, Druggist and Chemist, N. E. corner Clark and Madison-sts., Chicago:

April	1,700	July	12,000	July	24,000
May	2,700	August	12,500	August	26,000
June	4,000	September	14,000	September	27,000

Yours respectfully, WM. M. DALE.

FACTS are often stranger than fiction. We have WELL-VOLUMES of testimonials on file similar to above. "There are none so blind as those who will not see."

Over three thousand towns have already been taken. Any live dealer can make his rent with this brand of Cigars.

☞ Be sure and say Offer No. 105. State whether you wish goods shipped from New York or Chicago. Full 500-pound rates charged by freight makes express cheapest for 1,000 lots. As we take all risk and guarantee sale, don't wait until your neighbor has secured the agency. As we often receive two orders from the same town in the same mail (one of which we must refuse), a delay of one day may cause you to lose the most valuable cigar agency in the United States. We are the only strictly CO-OPERATIVE CIGAR HOUSE IN AMERICA. Every agent being registered we are enabled to guarantee the protection so highly appreciated and afforded by no other house.

☞ REMEMBER THIS! Every order filled with the guarantee that all goods shall be exactly as represented, or may be returned in thirty days at our expense.

TO OUR AGENTS—We make a SPECIAL OFFER of suitable foreign and American novelties for advertising the above brand EVERY MONTH. ☞ We employ no drummers, but divide the profits among our agents; thus each is an interested stockholder. RESULT, SUCCESS!!!

GEN. GRANT IN CIVIL LIFE.

THE TRIBUNE removes still further the dust of the shrine of Gen. Adam Badeau's admirable pages on "Grant in Peace," the subject of this particular article being Gen. Grant's relations to the South after the War. In the course of this page Gen. Badeau will show that the great leader's policy towards that section of the country as outlined in the terms of surrender at Appomattox was thereafter steadily maintained in its treatment of the Southern people and their cause. An unusual interest is given to the article by the publication of a letter from the great act of reconciliation to Gen. Grant, in which he expresses further confidence or gratification, and of a letter from Alexander H. Stephens asking for an order from headquarters on parole. The article also details the last meeting—now at the White House—between the native of the once contending armies—Grant and Lee. Gen. Badeau's article, which runs about one-half column, are a special feature of THE TRIBUNE TODAY.

MR. GLADSTONE has by his marvelous eloquence and his wonderful power over the British people succeeded in saving the Irish Democrats from high above the plane of mere party politics. He has made it one of "human sympathy combined with justice." As he will his audience at Leicester Thursday, and only the British race but all civilized mankind have united the liveliest interest in the question. It must be a great cause which evokes such intense and widespread interest. The London Times tries to comfort its Tipsy Tory constituency by affecting to regard the enthusiasm evoked during Mr. Gladstone's journey to Scotland as personal rather than political, as if this affected the question at issue. It comes at the conclusion of approval by the multitudinous of Parliament and the Scottish Capital, and says that their cheering and parting are no answer to the great question. But these multitudes have votes now, and they count for as much as the votes of the Times' aristocratic readers, and the parting and cheering plainly indicate how those multitudes will be cast. The Unionists and the Conservatives are not usually carried away by mere enthusiasm, much less is the coolly British. Mr. Gladstone has won their approval of his immortal measure by appeals to their reason and their love of justice. He has convinced the head plainly to them. That their affections might not be diverted from it, he repeats in all his speeches that the question submitted to the British people is: Shall Ireland be permitted to manage her own domestic affairs? The enthusiastic meetings in Northern England and Southern Scotland express the intense sternness to prophesy that the success of the British coalition cabal will vindicate its cause.

THE ILLINOIS LOCAL-OPTION LAW.

Prohibitionists assert that it is "dangerous" with an evil "brand" or "issue" has a penalty on the liquor traffic, but they do not seem to understand the fine argument. It cannot, will apply to every crime not punishable with death. The statute limit for petitioners for all offenses and crimes except treason and murder is five or imprisonment not exceeding certain terms in each case, and hence to the mere fact that the Prohibitionists use the prison time term of "committed with evil." The notice at the bottom of the petition sheet is not original with the advocates of prohibitory liquor laws, but dates back to the respectable Dutch, who made nearly every offense punishable with death and declared that on the eighteenth offense called for the establishment of the criminal to see only sorry that he could not find a severer punishment for the greater offenders. Dutch could "suspicion" with an evil, but punished even idleness with death, but its cells was superseded by the statutes of the wise Solon, whose fame as a lawgiver rests on the fact that he knew how to "make the punishment fit the crime."

Prof. Wines, who is an authority on the subject, states the theory of modern criminal laws as follows: "Does the contraction of crime is practically impossible, all existing penal systems cannot themselves with efforts to repress it." The question is not to stamp it to its end a penalty as public sentiment will approve and enforce. A severe punishment which stands on a dead letter is worthless when compared with a milder one which is faithfully executed. In regard to the liquor traffic public sentiment is in localities modest, and, as one community will support restrictive measures which another will not tolerate, the only way to secure an enforceable law is to adjust it according to the varying elements of the localities affected. This is just what the present Liquor law of this State aims to do, but it seeks in the last place to furnish such machinery at the petitioner's will unless. Primarily the present law of Illinois is prohibitory. It denies the common law right of every man to traffic in liquor, and prohibits all persons from so doing until they have secured the consent of the local authorities, and hence at that any community desiring prohibition need to do is to start off those who will refuse to grant licenses. The locality which will accept the State law is its primary form places itself under absolute prohibition, but as many will not do this the Miller clause does, to local interests an coalition that they secure partial prohibition at least by imposing a tax of not less than $100 for less and $500 for strictly, and go much more as they choose to follow. Any town in Illinois can get itself under prohibition so far as the liquor traffic out of existence whenever it so wills. The law puts into the hands of the people the state will which to pound the traffic to death if they will only set them. The State has done a primary rule of prohibition, but concerning the impossibility of enforcing a law contrary to the will of the people it across the prohibition of the decrees of legislation, but there only an condition that needs practicable and feasible restrictive principle are preserved. The law furnishes complete prohibition for every locality that will accept or tolerate it, and requires the others to observe all the most positionary regulations which can be enforced by a general statute.

It is an abuse of language and of common sense to speak of the Local law of Illinois as a "compromise with an evil." It is, on the contrary, an admirably planned statute to restrict and suppress the evils of liquor selling to the full extent that the people of any locality will permit. Instead of demanding impossibilities, Prohibition states the reasonable terms for Illinois Prohibitionists would be to intone consolation to enforce the law already provided. What they want is a stronger public sentiment to support and execute the existing admirable statute of the State. This statute is one of the best enacted by the State to be found in any country, and one of its chief merits is that it seeks to keep the law in harmony with public sentiment, and does not attempt the impossible.

CLEVELAND HEADED BY RANDALL.

It may well be believed that the refusal of the Democratic House to take up the Morrison Tariff bill is a sore disappointment to Mr. Cleveland. In his letter of May 20 to Secretary Manning the President referred to tariff reform as a subject with had caused "serious apprehension" in the Cabinet and declared that he had hoped the party "would be quickened to the sense of responsibility and led to some harmonious action." The President approved Manning's statement that genuine reform was "necessary to safety, binding to honor, and obligatory to the traditions of the Democracy." Yet after this public rebuke directed toward the constituent functions in the House Mr. Cleveland finds the majority against carrying out the sacred obligations and pledges of the party greater than any one authorized. Evidently this is a time for renewed "serious consultations" in the Cabinet or an entire abandonment of the hope that the Democracy can be led to "more harmonious action."

The responsibility of the collapse of the Morrison bill rests on the Democratic party. The plan for a revision of the tariff was devised and promoted by a Democratic Administration acting in accordance with party pledges "leading to honor." These recommendations passed into the hands of a Democratic committee and finally failed even of consideration by a House Democratic by a large majority. Does Mr. Cleveland care to trust to cast the part of the physician who counsel inactive while the patient received but hopes lamenting after his death that the poor fellow might have lived but he followed such and such methods? The President surely remembers the proclamation of Jan. 1 to which he said he received it to be his duty not to "advise Congress" in any way except by official messages. True, the President has often roused his own Cabinet and attempted to influence Democratic Congressmen by personal appeals and by having them under cover of the newspapers men with Manning, but every doctor could point to the proclamation of Jan. 1 as a science from duty authorized by the party chief himself. Democratic Congressmen are influenced by spoils, not by "official messages." Announcing that he would not throw any fire in dividing the spoils, and would not bring to bear the patronage which a Democratic Congressman must crush, it was inevitable that Mr. Cleveland should find himself at the head of a struggling partisan rout without harmony or cohesive strength to carry out its own pledges. The natural tongue of a Democrat does those to be spoils, not for reform. The only reduction of tariff have since the War was the work of a Republican Congress, and it is preposterous to expect any such achievements from a gang of Southern politicians organized as "a conspiracy for spoils and plunder."

DOLLAR AND "DOLLAR DOG."

The New York World expresses great regret that Holman took flight from Washington to Indiana "at the very moment when his presence in Congress was most needed." Holman had been put in charge of the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Appropriation bill, and it was almost unprecedented for him to leave what his enemies was called up and under consideration; but the World and the other Democratic papers that are criticising Holman ought to consider carefully the nature of the emergency that took the great objector. His presence may have been greatly needed in Congress, but a call much more urgent came from the Fourth Indiana District. By suspending promptly Holman secured a nomination, but the opposition to him was utter, an effort being made to adjourn the convention before he could speak and run delegates enough to a ballot. What would have been Holman's fate if he had remained in Washington to watch the appropriation bill and left his Indiana home at midnight? He was sure to be put to battling hard to rally the Democratic Cabinetists and Protectionists.

Holman has been in Congress for over twenty years, and nearly all his constituents were constituents. We cannot but regret his present plight as one of the consequences brought last winter by Mr. James Brown Potter and her lamenting peers, "Union Jim." The public is familiar with the emotion caused in Washington by Mrs. Potter, but it is not so well understood that she is a woman not only of beauty and social graces, but gifted with a pronounced faculty for business. Mrs. Potter's real mission to Washington was to secure the passage of a Southern state which had long lie for over twenty years and two fruit subject to her as a last result. It was not aided at the time whether Holman was present at the assembly. Without exception, what Mrs. Potter almost as much delighted attention and entertaining by the beauty of her hilarious matrons and not satisfied modesty of "Uncle Jim," but it is certain that when Mrs. Potter's State came up in the House Holman, instead of objecting, arose in his place and ardently certified that the bill was sound and sweet. It went through with a rush, and the Government at once became power and Mrs. Potter richer to the amount of $40,000. What sort of work was this for a chronic objector and obstructionist? What could Holman expect but that a large portion of his constituency would repudiate him with disgust?

Well, it is all over now. Holman has secured a renomination after a bitter fight, Mrs. Potter is in Europe, possibly enjoying her vacation, but has sent and the Democratic leaders of Washington have ceased to recite "Uncle Jim."

OUR NAVAL ORGANIZATION.

There will be found in another column an element of an argument recently presented to Congress for the elimination of our little navy entirely from with Hawaii. The organization of the navy was inspired and in relation engineered ten years ago by a clique of American sugar planters in the islands and their employees on the Pacific coast as a measure of commercial benefit to themselves, and it has served to good purpose of either Government, while the members of the ring have become enriched at the expense of the Treasury and American consumers. This combination controls the market on the Pacific coast, imposes upon the public and sustains the sugar duties, besides, it is alleged, practicing systematic fraud on the customs by the illegal free entry of dutiable sugars "free" by importations under colorable gratifications of the treaty entitle contract. And those who might to have have notified that upon the islands themselves it has operated as a special expression, resulting "in the demoralization and impoverishment of the natives to a fearful extent."

No commercial advantage has ever tended to our benefit from the treaty. Our imports under the treaty have far exceeded our exports, and the larger have constantly increased while the latter are concerning to decrease. Last year our imports from the islands were more than three times our exports to them.

No national advantage can accrue to us from the treaty, for the islands have long been controlled politically as completely as they have commercially by American statesmen, who were placed at the sugar plantations and a great majority of the chief force in them.

As a matter of fact the treaty never should have been negotiated, but since it was, and since its operations have been continued, a powerful interests managed in the name of the Government by a ring of self-serving commercial sharpers who have been to the detriment. Its abrogation would relegate to us the rights and privileges secured by the treaty of 1854, which are those of the most favored nation—all that we are entitled to and all that we can justly ever exercise of—while it would leave to the American people and the Hawaiian people and the Hawaiian people the enjoyment of private enterprise for purposes of private gain.

DOUBLING WHISKY.

A Kentucky dispatch, based in the interest of the whisky men of that State, estimates that the total production for the year ending with the current month will exceed 75,000,000 gallons. It is fair to presume that this interest in Kentucky alone, as the distillers of that State are undeniably oblivious to what is going on outside of their little world. It is a big one, though, in that particular; and to give world some to acquire even themselves. The quantity above stated includes in per cent in excess of that consumed at the beginning of the census or a safe limit for the production of the first year ever now in close. And so a result of this superhuman production on the part of the Kentucky distillers the trade is quite demoralized. There is now in bond over 75,000,000 gallons, which is 50 per cent more than a year ago, nearly two and a half times as much as at the close of 1885, and 60 per cent of the aggregate bond of nearly 80,000,000 gallons of four years since, which was considered a necessary to call forth the production nearly 70 per cent for the ensuing twelve months. An unprejudiced observer might have supposed that the trade would have learned wisdom from the experience of that time and subsequent to it, but he seems to be mistaken. By way be recommended for consideration to the remark by Solomon that "Though fools stumbled long a fool is a wonder like wheat with a penny, yet will not his foolishness depart from him."

All of this shows that the gentlemen referred to do not know how to take care of themselves, or depend upon good and Uncle Sam to help them out of their dilemma if they get into too deep water. Probably the latter. They have lived under a protecting hand so long as to think themselves comparatively irresponsible for the consequences of their own acts—like the man who is made drunk by their product. Australia, they not only have the general public but also their brother distillers in the West at a tremendous disadvantage. The latter are practically unable to save their whisky and do not want to store too much of it. They know that to do so and keep on making more is only a delaying of the evil day to which they must pay for all. So they do not regard the right to store as a benefit. The more intelligent of the distillers in the West believe that the leading interest in its production is stricken by a comedy mitigated evil, and that the whole trade must in better without it. They would be willing to see the system of deferred payments abolished, and would be glad if the extra expenses entailed by the present plan of operation were omitted to them, in the shape of a smaller tax on the "goods."

Why, then, should this concealed protection be continued any longer? Why should the Government of the United States be obliged to pay for the extensive bolsters of trading that involves a protection over the property of some of its citizens, taking the portion that it belongs to them and at the same time it does not? Why should the people of the United States take the results of such a lottery into year the product, so if there was danger of a famine before a supply for the future be provided, when the fact is that the distillers of the country could to say one month turn out as much of the stuff as is wanted for the consumption of Lyons? There is only one answer for it, and that is that whisky is to be good thirsten ups. Just a pity any have been a famine one year ago—with the whisky drinkers—but it is not valid now. Science has discovered a way to give the acquired "age" without consuming much time in doing it. Lying is scarcely as much beneficial to "the goods" as it has been proved to the nature, and even in their case it is a lamentable fact where to plague the secretaries it. There is no proof that the whisky which is made by the enormous process in Chicago and Peoria kills off its drinkers any better than does that made in the Eastern and allowed to rest in bond for three years before paying tax. Why, then, should the source, and consequently why should the people of the Western States, keep on paying into the hands of the men who manufacture "fatty-end" south of the Ohio?

Mr. Morrison's Indeed-Silver Words from a Democratic Congressman.

Chicago Herald, June 18. The Democratic platform of the Democratic party in 1884, the year that the Congress was elected, contained, among many other things to the same effect, the following:

We denounce the Republican party for having failed to relieve the people from the long-existing and burdensome taxation imposed upon them by the war tariff, which has produced immense, unjustifiable, and illegal surplus of unemployment and of idle capital. We, therefore, demand the repeal of the existing tariff laws and the passage of such tariff laws as will relieve the people from unnecessary burdens, and bring about a healthful and permanent adjustment of revenue.

The Congress elected on this platform was the 48th Congress, not being Democratic, but Republican, and was overwhelmingly, given the Democratic majority in the House. Pursuant to the pledge of the Democratic party in the platform of 1884, Mr. Morrison introduced a tariff bill embodying the views of the Democratic party and pledged to it. The bill was defeated by the Democratic majority in the House, and Mr. Morrison was defeated for re-election to the 49th Congress. Mr. Morrison is now a candidate for the 50th Congress, and in a speech delivered at Lafayette, Ind., on the 16th inst., he said:

"I am a Democrat, and I believe in the principles of the Democratic party. I believe in the platform of 1884. I believe in the platform of 1884 as much as I believe in the Democratic platform of 1856

THE UNITED STATES ARMY

GEN. LOGAN'S AMENDED BILL TO INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY FORCE.

A Stock of Fledgling Silkens Ready for Assignment to Regiments—An Opinion Rendered in the Empire-Starred Protective Case—A Session Dashing the Personal Property of Con-Resident Silkens Untenable—Rules for the Government of the New Hospital at Hot Springs.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—The Senate passed today Gen. Logan's amendment to increase the efficiency of the United States army. The original bill provided for an increase of the army, and this provision gave rise to a protracted debate in the Senate some weeks ago. It is not sure that features of the original bill has been omitted from the amended bill.

The War Department has received from Superintendent Sawtelle the services of this year's class of graduates, and the assignment of these young men to regiments will occupy for a very few days. After they have been assigned and their appointments confirmed it is proposed to give the entire class an outing extending for a period of three months. The object in getting commissions in their hands at an early date is to deliver to a certain extent the money ruling of the Second Comptroller relating to pay of graduates. The Comptroller held that the long-standing custom of allowing graduates the pay of Second Lieutenants between the date of graduation and the actual receipt of commission out of existing appropriations was not warranted by law. So to avoid wrongful to have occurred since Congress met extended.

The Surgeon-General's promotion case has finally been settled by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs to the former's favor. It was determined to request the President to withdraw the nomination of Lieut. Smythe and send in the name of Lieut. Hodgson instead. It is probable that the President will comply with the request.

The Senate circular for the month of September from the War Department, announcing the bidding system of the Judge-Advocate-General, not heretofore published, on the liability of army officers to duty for an indefinite property.

An officer temporarily on duty at a certain place in the military station cannot legally refuse to receive a check for his personal property on the ground that he is there, not permanently, and he has other residence at others. This is the opinion of the Comptroller, and may be of the interest officers stationed.

It has therefore become that a law imposed for a check on the pay of an officer of the army under certain circumstances, and which has been in force since the Civil War, the United States Courts would assess his principle over the personal property of an officer of the army is to subject to set.

The President's order prescribing rules and regulations for the government of the new army and army hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., has just been promulgated to convey orders from headquarters of the army. The rules provide that attendants to the hospital for invalid officers shall be appointed by the Secretary of War, and such men and nurses and medical corps, including those on the retired list. The organization of the hospital shall include one medical officer of the army, who shall be the surgeon in charge and who shall be detailed by the Secretary of War, such medical assistants from the army as may be deemed necessary, detailed by the Secretary of War or by the Secretary of the Navy. The civilian clerk shall be selected by the surgeon in charge with the approval of the Secretary of War. Officers of other services or army nurses shall be subject to a charge of subsistence not to exceed $1.00 per day. Enlisted men of other services shall have the usual privileges of rations commuted at the rate of ten cents per day. The surgeon in charge shall report to the Surgeon-General of the army a monthly statement of all persons received and expended; he is authorized to prepare such rules and regulations for the interior government of the hospital as may from time to time be necessary.

The interior charges in matters of pay of officers were announced from the War Department this afternoon. They take effect from and after October 1 next. Hereafter payments, dues, etc., ordered on all of officers officers for the Inspector of Subsistence, and on commanding officer of the present Union will be made to the order of Lieut. Hodgson, instead of to the order of the Treasurer. It is probable that the President will comply with the request.

CHICAGO, June 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Will you please give the full name and post office address of the present United States Senators in Congress and representing the State of California to the United States Senate?

J. S. G.

[United States, counted in 1880, and Joseph S. Hager, recently appointed to the Governor to fill out the unexpired term of John F. Miller.]

The Chicago & Evanston Old Folks Band.

CHICAGO, June 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your recent notice on the old and the youngest and oldest in North Clark street (some say east), to the Town of Lake View, was timely and to the point, and it is high time that the invitation to remove as soon as possible, instead of perpetuating it. It would be a misfortune for the people of the town to be obliged to stand another such infliction for the shortest period of any every years, for which time the new company graciously promises to quit. The location of the old company does not expire for three or four years, and an extension of time, it will be surrendered before that time expires. The inconvenience of the new company are at this time annoying for a location, of which they could not possibly foresee for three or four years, and are trying to persuade the people that the old company has nothing to do with it. The intention is very plain, however, that it is the same company under a new name. The proprietors of the South end of the road are conspicuously opposed to any such movement, and have vigorously expressed their opposition to the scheme of the new company. If the Town Board, in spite of such opposition, should see fit to give away the valuable franchises for another term of forty years to this or any other company, the interests should be kept clear that it may have the privilege of terminating your privileges at the expiration of forty-five years from the granting privileges of the renewal of the Town of Lake View, of which I have been one for a short years.

"Parisian Suit Co."

LAY THEIR GREAT SUCCESS in the Cloak and Suit trade to the fact that they manufacture their own goods and do not deal in factory-made New York Suits, such as are to be found in every retail dry-goods house in Chicago, as their aim is to produce "Exclusive Styles and Original Ideas." Employing the best talent to be found in the United States for that purpose, their stock suits are not the ordinary ready-made goods, the skirts being tacked together to show the style, the waist merely basted, button-holes not worked, thus securing a perfect fit in all cases where the proper time is given. You are also sure of better work and finish than is possible in a factory dress, as every Suit made is cut singly and finished with as great care as if made to order. Where a lady buys her materials, buttons, trimmings, etc., at retail, paying a large profit on everything, and goes to even an ordinary dressmaker, she will find that she will invariably pay more for her dress than we can furnish it for, and will have to keep it whether she likes it or not. With us she sees what she is going to get before she pays for it.

The secret of all this is, we make a specialty of the business, import our own materials, and all we ask is the profit on the goods, as we make next to nothing on our dressmaking, but giving our customers the benefit of our immense experience. These are a few of the reasons that we owe our UNPRECEDENTED SUCCESS in the Suit business. We cordially invite comparison and inspection.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THE

New Perfection

SAND WEAR CHARCOAL-FILLED

REFRIGERATOR

Made by the Belding Mfg. Co.

A Few Reasons Why It Is Superior to All Others.

It is FREE from the commingled odors found in other Refrigerators, and is the only one that produces a PURE, COLD, DRY AIR, and is more economical in the use of ice than any other Refrigerator made.

The New Perfection is constructed on purely scientific principles, and preserves the original flavor of each kind of food, because the air is kept DRY and PURE by the patent per-fected system of ventilation.

The ice-absorber being large, the consumer can economize by using large cakes of ice, from which much better results are derived.

Next to honor and virtue is the possession of money and property; therefore save it, treasure it, hold to it when you can, and even in the purchase of the

COMFORTS OF LIFE,

Which is the one thing that should open the purse-strings often and widest, too much care cannot be taken as to those you deal with and what goods you buy. Now we claim, and justly, too, that we save the average householder more money than any firm of whatsoever kind in the city of Chicago. This is a sweeping assertion, but we are fully prepared to BACK IT UP.

GLADSTONE MAKES A PURSUASIVE AP-PEAL TO HIS HOST.

Lord Salisbury Addresses a Vast Audience at Leeds—The Premier Starts with a Distinct Reception—His Home Rule Speech—Argument with the Paper Union ples of the Union—Carnarvon and Derby Speak from Different Constituencies.

LEEDS, June 12.—[By Cable.]—Mr. Gladstone's visit to The Tribune.—Mr. Gladstone's progress hither from London under the triumph of general popularity was quite unbroken. Throughout the journey the cheering masses gave him spirited rein, and at all hamlets where he was met a young child in general devotion or a public man rose to get it an extra ovation exhibited except Bow City. The history people understood fully that the only occasion before the public to find him home was to congratulate on the one hand, or the plan to cut to the contrary. The early period ranged through singing every time he knew that open Gladstone. All parts of the city were expectation, even the Union Jacks, were hoisted from which not especially perceived but to the contrary. The preparations of the authors was quite suggestive of the progressive universal suffrage. Labourers seemed to be the sun set out to ride this huge spectacle. Then the enthusiasm took up the cry as Mr. Gladstone, and to his, standing to Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone, were seen moving toward the platform, and the roar of welcome was vastly greater than the visitor's modest, yet thrilling, appearance evoked. When the starters appeared at the post for the 100 race, a prize was to a canoe be called to a likelihood on the betting ground, and when he finished ahead of the whole the betting officer announced the race: "Grand Island ahead, Reggie Carter to Restive."

There will be a concert at Douglas Park every Saturday evening, beginning today, and every Wednesday afternoon during June and July. The music will be good. Last year these concerts were a great attraction.

The Washington tunnel is in a very bad condition and is caving heavily. The timber over the centre is one large rubble, and the contracts are much worse. The cause of the dripping water resembles a heavy rain storm. It is only a question of time when it will cave in.

The South Town Board met yesterday. Thomas Ferris, the Collector for 1885, presented a statement showing that he received some money on account in 1885, and paid it to the proper parties in 1886. He has also paid out money for 1886 and has balances to the credit of the several funds. The statement was referred to a committee.

Patrick Dorey gives notice to a Woodstock, Ill., saloon that he will file his petition for a license to succeed James Daley's license to incorporators for 1886. The saloon occupied under date of June 11 and the 12th James Daley was confined in the McHenry County Jail under sentence of death, etc.

Charles Poettker, a ragged, dirty, dark-looking tramp, was passing in front of the house of Bridget McMullin, a bottle-peddler, at No. 220 Blue Island avenue, last evening, passed on the other side and then walked back to the house. He asked for a drink of water, and Mrs. McMullin was about to comply when Poettker struck her a heavy blow on the head with a bottle, and then ran away. Mrs. McMullin was taken to the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, where it was found that her skull was fractured. Poettker was arrested by Officer Hoffman, of the Desplaines street station, and locked up.

LONDON, June 18.—[Via Mackay-Bennett Cable to The Tribune.]—At the French Embassy no note is obtainable concerning the Pub Delicious. The news of their acquisition by France is generally believed to be false. LITERATURE OF THE DAY.

BUFFALO BY ANDREW DICKSON RAY-MOND AND EDGAR BEECH CRAIN.

"The Web of Destiny" following in the train of "Not for a Woman"—A Comely Covenant Plot, but the Interest of the Latter Heard to the Church of the Latter Book's Lucidity—"King Arthur: Not a Love-Story"—Other Fiction, Quotation, and Gun Lyric.

It is several years since St. Arthur Chicopee Harris produced his admirable tale entitled "Not for a Woman." He now comes again with a second novel, which he calls "The Web of Destiny." The plot is peculiarly pretty. The two women to whom the reader is put forward expect suitors at about different times to proceed to the same manner; the hero is not dead; at one time he is ill, and the lovers are thrown together. The latter are young, handsome, and of the better classes. The former is a Quaker maiden, a perfect by her sharper lineaments of the the author admits: "He had no chance to dance that day but by it. In the event to the latitude. Superiority over the opposite happy upon the position she is was not fool or with to concentrate on. She may have a philosophy or a concept to govern and put account to the system." In St. Davy's treatment of his narrative scenes, tangible and lively, he has an advance on "Their Inmate" in some matters. In Rose Cooper Hall he seems to contrast an earlier problem; but even now that has the character of indecisive Harris—the graceful, loosely-sketched—commanding the pen portraits of the latest period. In her Cooper Hall he has given us a picture of a Quaker household, and has made the most of it. The plain dress and the speech of the Friends are delicately indicated, and the whole picture is a pleasant one. Rose Cooper herself is a charming girl, and her father, Jacob Cooper, is a good study. Both are well-drawn. The old Quaker's dislike of worldly dress is natural enough, and his remonstrance with his daughter on the subject is not overdone. Rose's own conduct in the matter is also natural, and her reasoning is not unfair. Her father's opposition to her marriage with Lieutenant Hall is also natural enough, and the lieutenant's conduct in the matter is not unfair. The author has evidently had a clear conception of his characters, and has worked them out with a good deal of care. His observation as to their surroundings, their conversation as to their surroundings, their expression of their minds, which have not the slightest relation to the subject under consideration.

Lieutenant Hall is a philosopher who foregoes in the first instance of the Christian era, and is an eminently lovable person to have about—consisting of the duty of a commander, in the way a man of his position would have to do it, and a spoken word all the time. A good deal of the book is taken up with the description of the battle of Cooper Hall, and the author has evidently had a clear conception of how everything was done, but he sometimes fails to make his description as to how everything was. There are also numerous abortive of time of the Quaker Meeting, bits of modest humor, and digressions of other kinds, which have not the slightest relation to the subject under consideration.

The success of Mr. Harris's method as a narrator has led Mr. John Dimple more. "The new descriptive process of unbreaking evidence, failing to the most, nothing we would, or unconfirmed, to the true narrative, and more than for the true manuscript."

It seems likely that the new American story, "Mr. Dupuy and His Daughter," by Mr. Edgar L. Wakeman, will make a favorable impression. The author has written some taken lately, and it should certainly prove one of the most determined biographers of recent years.

A Shareholder Has Been Killed for His Job, Who Objected to Being His Hobby Steed.

SAGINAW, Mich., June 19.—[Special.]—Clark Spicer, an old man of Zilwa, Bartlett County, this State, was killed by his own timber late last night. The old man had been in Saginaw all day and came home about 10 o'clock in quite drunk and quarrelsome. The son, who was in bed, heard his father swearing at the mules and in a few moments his mother called to him for help. When the young man reached the room he found his father prostrate with his mother begging for mercy, but neither of her son knew his father drunk, and before the old man could search his quarters shot him dead with a pistol. The son says he takes the responsibility himself and exonerates his mother. Clark Spicer was 67 years old. The coroner has been notified.

Clearings at the principal cities of the United States yesterday and a week ago today:

Boston
Philadelphia
St. Louis

New York exchange was quoted as follows yesterday: Chicago, eighth premium; Boston, 10c discount; St. Louis, 5c premium; Cincinnati, 5-16 premium.

The local demand for money at the banks yesterday was a moderate one, about the usual amount of accommodation being wanted on the current days' call. Very little money is wanted for the moving of products, as the crops have not yet started for 1896, or will further ahead, but there was some call from the country to enable the parties to hold grain temporarily until sold to a later time, it will probably rank higher prices than now. Money is reported as "easy" with considerable amounts of outside capital seeking investment, but rates of discount are quoted unchanged at 6@8 per cent on call and 6@7 per cent on time loans. Bond merchants are encountering surprise at the promptness with which bills are paid, and enjoy a good trade now for the last half of the year. Most experienced bring that country buyers are generally in light stock. More goods are being sold for cash and than formerly, and it is stated that this average trade of forty days shows that cash is the rule.

LAKE SHIPPING NEWS.

A GRIM HERALD FOR VESSELS OF LAKE ERIE.

Save-An Fire at the Mount Abraham—The Schooner John Bates in Trouble—Sinking of the Gold Spun—The Sable Chief Wrecked—An Abyssm in Coal Freights—Canal Movements—Around the Lakes.

The season for lake grain freights has settled down to a steady basis, and the prospects are that it will be kept there for some time to come. Rates are now 2½ cents for wheat and 2¾ cents for corn to Buffalo, 2¼ cents for wheat to Kingston, 2 cents for corn to Kingston, and 2¾ cents for corn to Buffalo. There was information of a charter at 2½ cents for wheat to Buffalo, but it could not be got to confirm it. The reason for the strengthening of the grain freight market is the comparatively small number of vessels now in port, and the probability that several vessels will be detained for repairs for some days. This is an item that has been overlooked by many who have been predicting a decline in rates. Many vessels have been chartered in Milwaukee, which have been in port for days, and have been waiting for cargoes. The vessels are generally in good condition, and the owners are willing to keep them in port rather than accept low rates. The lumber freight market is also strengthening, and the prospects are that there will be a good demand for vessels to carry lumber to Buffalo and Tonawanda. The coal freight market is also improving, and the prospects are that there will be a good demand for vessels to carry coal to Buffalo and Tonawanda.

Wreck of the Sable Chief.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., June 18.—The steamer Sable Chief, which left this port last night for Port Arthur, struck on a reef in the Detour channel, and is a total wreck. The vessel is owned by the Sable Chief Transportation Company, of Chicago, and was valued at $60,000. She was insured for $40,000. The vessel was bound for Duluth in ballast. It is reported that she grounded on the reef, and that the captain, fearing that the vessel would sink, ran her on shore. The crew escaped. The Sable Chief was built at Algonac in 1882.

Around the Lakes.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 18.—Several vessels were delayed for lake freights at the docks here yesterday, owing to the strike of the coal handlers. Several vessels are due to arrive at Chicago and Milwaukee for coal, but will not be allowed to dock until the strike is settled. Several vessels are waiting for cargoes of coal, but will not be allowed to dock until the strike is settled. The following engagements have been reported:

AROUND THE OPEN FIRE.

FASHION HAS AGAIN MADE THE FURNACE BRANCH THE GRATE.

Gossip, Suggestions, and Ocean Gleaners in the Realm—Associations of Pottery and Brightness With Wood. Chatter About the Open Fireplace—Hygienic Considerations in the Matter—A Reasonable Assortment of Everyday Bills of Fare—Sketches for Greenhalgh, Lauritzen, and Stuart.

"A good fire, a clear hearth, and the rigor of the game."

Although non-players of whist may not care to accept the last portion of good Sarah Battle's famous conditions for enjoyment, all the lovers of home comfort and home sense will grant that for the perfection of them the two first are essentials. A notable change of opinion has taken place in the recent darling the last few years. Passengers now for a long time to the faith of suffering discoverers every year the American System of portable ground a hole in the floor and performed a rare miracle for our good housewife that could be managed about a register or steam drum. There was to a young crank of dark figured philosophy in the American character, but few and paltry promoted even under those circumstances. A low adjustment spirit clung to the open fireplace, and to see that we resisted by doctors and practical students of hygiene. With these recommendations may have proved the entering wedge, it has required for fashion to finally make the family hearth the rage, and to do away with the black, fat grate of whose demise we feel so long quoted.

From the soldiers employed the benefits of the stove are fairly to overestimate. To that one may, a stove, a register, or a steam-heater may serve to warm artists. The most successful effect that can be got forth is by keeping these thoroughly in the background to render them as unobtrusive and free as unobjectionable as possible. But ground the open fire another of associations of poetry and brightness. It has been the spiritual buttery and pleasure-making from the earliest records of the old English living and the most pieces of all Native Era about the little smoke-hole Brightness down to the present day, when the pretty-dried hearth, with its brass fender and mellow old brass shovel and tongs, forms the business of the home. There is hardly need to refer to the poets and prose writers, from Lodger to Le Blanc, who have resorted to gossiping arts to their accustomed effect.

Considered as hygienic light, there is no good to be said in favor of the open fire. As a means of ventilation it is unsurpassed, for the impurities of the atmosphere are naturally drawn, as the current by the chimney of the fire to get rapid to smoke. It is especially to be commended in case of sickness. A sick-room physician is reported to have said that one of the best antiseptic spiritual chimney or antiseptic medicine is a good fire. In the best of cases, however, it is a wasteful means of getting warm. The greater part of the heat is lost by passing up the chimney, and the cold air rushes in to supply the vacuum. The cold current from the floor is also a source of discomfort, and the heat is unequally distributed, the face and front of the body being roasted, while the back and limbs are chilled. Besides, the open fire is a source of danger, and many a fatal accident has been caused by the sparks flying out into the room. Finally, the open fire is a source of dirt and disorder, and the labor of keeping it in order is a serious item in the household expenses.

Still, with all these drawbacks, the open fire is a good thing, and we are glad to see that it is coming into fashion again. Its cheerful glow is a welcome sight on a cold day, and its ruddy light is very becoming to the complexion. Besides, it is a good ventilator, and in case of sickness it is invaluable. Then, too, it is a great saver of coal, and in these days of high prices for fuel that is a matter of no small importance. Finally, it is a great saver of temper, for it is much easier to keep a fire in order than to keep a furnace in order, and the former is a much more satisfactory piece of furniture to have in the house.

Open fires are now made in all sizes and shapes, and there is no difficulty in getting one to suit any room. The old-fashioned style, with its high mantel-piece and wide chimney-breast, is still very popular, and is especially suitable for large rooms. But there are many other styles, and the modern grate is so constructed that it can be set in a narrow space, and will throw out a great deal of heat. Some grates are made with a small oven at one side, in which bread can be baked or meat roasted, and others have a boiler at the back, so that water can be kept hot for use in the kitchen. Some grates are made with a movable screen in front, which can be drawn up or down at pleasure, and others have a movable shelf on which to keep the coal-scuttle, shovel, tongs, etc., so that they will be always at hand when wanted. Some grates are made with a movable bar at the back, from which a kettle can be suspended, and others have a movable bar in front, on which to toast bread, muffins, etc. Some grates are made with a movable fender, which can be drawn out when the fire is not in use, and others have a fender which is fixed in front of the fire. Some grates are made with a movable hearth-rug, which can be drawn out when the fire is not in use, and others have a fixed hearth-rug. Some grates are made with a movable coal-scuttle, which can be drawn out when the fire is not in use, and others have a fixed coal-scuttle. Some grates are made with a movable fender, which can be drawn out when the fire is not in use, and others have a fixed fender
